Meet the Keynote Speaker

Susan Riley
Founder and CEO

Susan Riley is the Founder and CEO of the Institute for Arts Integration and STEAM, the world's largest online resource for educators integrating the arts. A former public school teacher and central office leader, she has authored three books and presented for organizations including the U.S. Department of Education, Edutopia, and NPR. Under her leadership, the Institute has grown from a simple blog into a respected global institution serving over 500,000 educators each month. Known for her pioneering, standards-based approach to Arts Integration and STEAM, Susan brings creativity, practicality, and passion to advancing education worldwide.
