Good Morning!

I am sending this as documentation of our efforts to investigate and address the concern voiced to us via email from [redacted]. Attached is my correspondence to her. She never responded. I also sent hard copies of these emails to Mr. Garrett Hoerner, the attorney for the District.

Ms. [redacted],

At what school are you working as we do not have you in our system under this name. I will need to meet with you and your attorney as soon as possible... I will also have the Regional Superintendent and the District's attorney at this meeting. We will need to do this promptly as I will need to contact the State Superintendent of Schools about this issue today....Dr. Saunders

Subject: ISAT testing information

I am writing this to inform you that at least one of your principals has suggested cheating on the ISAT test by breaking security for the test and having the teachers preview the test before the test was given. This was done so that teachers would have a chance to teach specific concepts that the students would see on the ISAT test.

This is not the first year this has been suggested and suggested in a 4th grade district wide meeting last year by a principal who was conducting the meeting.

I have contacted my lawyer in reference to protections under the law for this type of situation, which I do not feel comfortable in revealing but none the less needs to be dealt with in order to ensure future test scores are not compromised.

A copy of this email has been sent to the Illinois State Board of Education.
Ms. [redacted]. Now that you have sent this to the State Department of Education, you will need to reveal the names of the principal(s), dates, times of the request etc. today... There will be a complete investigation... I will have H.R. contact you today for a meeting. Dr. Saunders

- East St. Louis Unit 189
- + teacher in the desk.

- At least one of the principals suggested to teachers to review the IEPs before it is given to the students prior to testing.

- This is not the first year this occurred and just this year it occurred at a school-wide meeting for all grade levels.

- What the teachers told the teachers got a speech from the principal immediately before this test. The teachers showed this in a note without knowing what is on the left.

- Not sure whether teachers actually review the test or if they fake it and go to their room a few minutes after the meeting.

They received the e-mail from this person:

They do not have a@pytest in the computer.

They responded back asking for papers but did not get a response back.

From: Please find below a copy of an email that was sent to the Superintendent and Assistant Superintendents of East St. Louis School District 189. I am writing this to inform you that at least one of your principals has suggested cheating on the ISAT test by breaking security for the test and having the teachers preview the test before the test was given. This was done so that teachers would have a chance to teach specific concepts that the students would see on the ISAT test. This is not the first year this has been suggested and was suggested in a 4th grade district wide meeting last year by a principal who was conducting the meeting. I have contacted my lawyer in reference to protections under the law for this type of situation, which I do not feel comfortable in revealing but none the less needs to be dealt with in order to ensure future test scores are not compromised. This following part was not revealed to the Superintendent or Assistant Superintendents because I am a teacher in the district and fear reprisal but if you have not figured it out through your number calculations I am pretty sure test scores have been compromised within the district in the past. Within my building we get a speech from our principal right before the ISAT test each year that we should NEVER give a test without knowing what is on that test beforehand. Within a short time the test are handed out, as instructed, to preview. Whether or not the test are previewed is another matter because the test are then taken to the individual teachers rooms. I work hard to try to get my students to do well on the ISAT test and am tired of feeling like I am looked upon as such a failure that I am being instructed to cheat on the test, that is my motive behind contacting you. I can not even compare my scores to others because I do not know what the true scores are or would be if possible cheating is taking place. Do not try to contact me through the phone number, it is not a correct number because I do not want to be cross-referenced with district records to reveal my identity. If need be please contact me at my email address and I will respond in kind...
