

High School Students Taking Community College Courses School Year 2007-2008 Report

To comply with Section 2-3.144 of the Illinois School Code (formerly Section 2-3.142 and, before that, Section 3-14.27), as well as Section 10-21.4 or 34-8, high school and unit district superintendents are required to complete and submit to the Illinois State Board of Education an annual survey that documents the number of high school students taking community college courses and the names of the courses taken.

For school year 2007-2008, 491 high school and unit districts completed and submitted the High School Students Taking Community College Courses survey between August and December 2008. Among these reporting districts, 67 districts reported no students taking community college courses and the remaining 424 districts reported that 38,175 students took courses offered by the community colleges. Of the 635,496 high school students recorded in the 2007-2008 fall housing report, approximately 6 percent took courses offered by the community colleges. Appendix A provides data on the number of students, by gender and race, in each of the districts where students enrolled in community college courses.

High school and unit districts reported a total of 49 Illinois community colleges that offered courses to their high school students. The number of high school students who took courses from these community colleges ranges from 15 students at the Harry S. Truman City College in Chicago to 3,986 students at the Elgin Community College in Elgin. Among the 49 community colleges, approximately 49 percent (24 colleges) offered courses to more than 500 high school students. Ten community colleges, including all seven Chicago city colleges, offered courses to fewer than 100 high school students during school year 2007-2008. Appendix B lists these community colleges, along with the number of high school students, by gender and race, enrolled.

There were 28 community college courses taken by 38,175 high school students, with about half of the students taking more than one course. Therefore, districts recorded 57,888 course enrollment counts for the 28 courses. The number of students taking each of these courses ranges from 27 students taking the ethic and cultural studies course to 11,645 students taking the computer and information science course. Approximately 68 percent (19 courses) of the 28 courses served more than 500 high school students each; two courses were taken by fewer than 30 students. Two courses—library science and military technologies—had been offered by the community colleges in the past but had no high school students enrolled in school year 2007-2008. Appendix C lists the course names and the number of high school students, by gender and race, enrolled.
